Q.51 Should I always carry my residence card with me?

Individuals who have a residence card must carry it at all times. However, this means that you are exempt from the previous requirement to carry your passport at all times. The residence card fits neatly into your wallet. Please note that breaches of the requirement to carry the card are punishable with a fine of no more than ¥200,000. If you still have an Alien Registration Card, please continue to carry it at all times, as before. Foreign nationals under the age of 16 and special permanent residents are exempt from the requirement to carry a residence card/Alien Registration Card/special permanent resident certificate/passport.

Designated Activities

Q.52 I’m graduating from university, but I haven’t decided where to work. I want to continue job hunting. Can I still have the status of residence as “Student”?

International students who have graduated from/ completed an undergraduate or graduate school degree program and wish to continue looking for a job after graduation/completion as they were unable to find employment while still enrolled at university must change their status of residence to “ Designated Activities for Job-seeking Activities” , because it is unable to continue job hunting while retaining the status of “student” . So be sure to change your status of residence.

Designated Activities

※Auditing students, undergraduate students, and research students are not eligible for this status. Please note that individuals who completed a doctoral program without receiving a degree may not use this system to change their status of residence to " Designated Activities" .

Q.53 What is required to change the status of residence to "the Designated Activities for Job-seeking Activities status of residence" ?

A university recommendation letter is required to apply for "the Designated Activities for Job-seeking Activities status of residence" . Q.54 How long can you stay in Japan with the status of residence of "the Designated Activities for Job-seeking Activities status of residence" ?

You may stay in Japan for 6 months, but if you apply to extend your period of stay further, you may remain for up to a year.

※If you wish to apply for an extension to your period of stay after the initial 6 month period, you will need to go through the same procedures and submit the same documents again. You are advised to keep a record of your job-seeking activities, which is necessary for the university to issue a letter of recommendation.

In addition, if you are eligible for an employment support project (internship) implemented by a local government, you may retain further 1 year (2 years in total).

Q.55 Is it okay to work part-time after changing my status of residence to "the Designated Activities for Job-seeking Activities status of residence" ?

If you permitted "change your status of residence" when you change from "Student" status of residence to "the Designated Activities for Job-seeking Activities status of residence" , you can work part-time if you are approved.

Designated Activities

- Q.56 An international student who graduated from university at the end of March of this year and was conducting job hunting with the status of residence of “the Designated Activities for Job-seeking Activities status of residence”. I got a job, but I will join the company in April next year. Is it ok to keep the status of residence as “the Designated Activities for Job-seeking Activities status of residence”?

Individuals who have obtained a job offer as a result of looking for a job while holding the Designated Activities for Job-seeking Activities status of residence and will start their job in the following fiscal year must change their status of residence to Designated Activities with a Job Offer until they start their job.
This procedure is not possible at the university, so please apply it by yourself.

- Q.57 I am planning to bring my family to Japan and live together. What kind of procedure is required?

If you wish to invite your family to stay with you, it is advised to bring your family once you have become accustomed to life in Japan and find a place for them to live. Be sure to obtain the consent of your academic advisor before you come as a couple or family. If they will stay more than 90 days, please obtain a “Certificate of Eligibility for Status of Residence (COE)” for your family from the Immigration Service Agency.
Please mail the issued certificate to your family in your home country. Family members can obtain a “family stay” visa smoothly by performing this procedure at a Japanese embassy or consulate abroad with this certificate. The certificate is valid for 3 months, so your family member must enter the country within that period.
In addition, after a family member who has a residence status of “Family Stay” comes to Japan, it is necessary to go through the procedures at the municipal office where the residence is located. Please prepare the original marriage certificate and birth certificate and the Japanese translation in advance.

- Q.58 A child was born. Is it necessary to submit a birth notification to the Immigration Service Agency?

If the child that has been born will stay in Japan for more than 60 days, you must obtain a status of residence for that child. Please take the child’s birth certificate or certificate of acceptance of birth notification to the Immigration Services Agency to apply for a status of residence within 30 days of the birth.

- Q.59 A child was born. Is birth notification required at the ward office?

Within 14 days from the date of birth of your child, please submit a birth notification at the district, town, or village office where you live. A birth certificate (made by a doctor) and “Boshi-techo(a mother and child health handbook)” are required for the procedure.

Designated Activities

Q.60 I would like to return to Japan for a long vacation such as summer vacation or winter vacation. Do I need special procedures for re-entry?

If you have a valid passport and resident card (※1) and want to return to your home country for a long vacation such as summer vacation or winter vacation, you can use the “Special reentry permit system” , so the “re-entry permit” is not required. However, it is necessary to re-enter Japan within 1 year after your departure (※2).

(※1) The special re-entry permit system also applies to those in possession of a stating “A residence card is to be issued later” , or an Alien Registration Certificate deemed to be equivalent to the residence card.

(※2) If your period of stay expires within 1 year after your departure, please ensure that you re-enter Japan before the expiration of your period of stay.

When you departure Japan, present your resident card at the departure counter at the airport, and check a statement to your Embarkation and Disembarkation Card for Re-entrants (ED card for Re-entrants) “You wish to re-entry Japan” .

Please note that if your Status of Residence expires while you are abroad, you will not be able to enter Japan unless you obtain a new Status of Residence.
